Dear Robin:

Once again, I thank you for bringing Romanza to our stage at Steppingstone Waterside Theatre. Our residents, in general, are an affluent population who have lived for many years with immediate access to Lincoln Center, Carnegie Hall and the Broadway theater district. As such, they tend to be an extremely demanding audience who have very high expectations for music and the arts. Many of these people have been attending our concerts for over 25 years.

I, myself, have had the pleasure of presenting over seventy concerts at our venue in the past four years. In that time I have never heard the amount of compliments and the passion behind them from our residents as I did when they left Steppingstone Park last night. In the words of one resident, "Who needs the Met when we have this?"

I am not a religious person but I truly believe these three gentlemen were blessed by God with their voices when they were born. The only things that, perhaps, might surpass their talent are their warmth and ability to connect with the audience on all levels.

We look forward to having Romanza grace our stage again in the near future.

Sincerely,

Neil D. Marrin
