To Whom It May Concern:

This letter serves as an unqualified recommendation for Darren, Heather and the PUSH company based on their October 2013 performance at Coastal Carolina University. Their brief residency served as an opening for a more extensive collaboration with our new degree program in Physical Theatre, and generated positive feedback from our community members, public school students, and our campus community attending the show.

The troupe gave a thrilling and artful performance and workshop to three, very diverse audiences, including a free showing for our local elementary and middle school students. PUSH was open and flexible to our programming and master class needs, and adapted their storytelling specifically for each audience. Their incredible experience, practice and skill showed through in their performances, and our programming for the year benefited from their imaginative contribution.

From first booking to the final performance, PUSH was open, communicative and professional. They were easy to work with, flexible, and engaging. We will be happy to have them back again, and we would recommend them highly for a performance or a workshop.

Sincerely,
