

Sensory-Friendly Performances

Our Sensory - Friendly Performances are designed to create a theatrical experience that is welcoming to all audiences on the autism spectrum, with special needs, or with other sensory sensitivities.

For this special performance, the theatre environment is adjusted to provide a sensory-friendly, comfortable and judgement-free space.

Adjustments include:

- House lights will remain on at a low level in the theater during the performance
- One natural stage lighting look with no change throughout the performance
- Lower sound level, especially for startling or loud sounds
- No strobe lighting
- Patrons are free to talk and leave their seats during the performance
- Designated quiet areas within the theater
- Space throughout the theater for standing and movement
- Freedom to use supportive technology as needed
- A DLUX Puppets Sensory-Friendly Study Guide is available to further prepare audience members for what to expect in a theatrical environment.
